

Drying Towels More Quickly

Over the years, I've found through trial and error how to get my towels to dry more quickly. Most of the places I've lived have been humid, so the extra moisture in the air can make towels get musty-smelling if they don't dry quickly enough.

Fold the towel in half lengthwise. Hang on bar, as smoothed out as possible. Another folded the same way can be placed on the bar beside if there is enough room. A small amount of overlap (up to an inch) will still allow the towels to dry properly.

With towels folded in this manner, towels can be placed on “stacked” towel bars such as over-the-door towel bar sets and still dry properly.
